I am thrilled that following the success of our 2014 and 2015 events we are in the position to host our third annual Case Management Conference this year. As part of our 2016 event we will be exploring the various challenges associated with working closely with families in trying circumstances and we look forward to coming together and sharing best practice in this area and others.

Following your feedback the conference will again be hosted at The Hilton in Coventry and we look forward to welcoming brain injury case managers, therapists and other like minded professionals from all over the country. Towry's kind sponsorship of the event has once again also allowed us to host a number of student and local authority delegate places, for which we are grateful.

We are delighted to welcome Senior Judge Denzil Lush as our keynote speaker, who looks forward to taking your questions. We also welcome David Fisher, Catastrophic & Injury Claims Technical Manager at AXA Insurance and look forward to hearing his views from a Defendant perspective. Do make the most of this opportunity and have your questions at the ready.

Once again we have a wide range of speakers lined up, covering a variety of topics but each being part of the same loose theme we hope to run throughout the day in relation to 'working with families.' Thank you to all of our speakers who have kindly given up their time to support the important work we all do and to offer guidance in their specialist fields.

I hope you find the day enjoyable and informative and you leave with practical advice that you are able to apply in your daily practice. We are delighted that our previous conferences have raised nearly £5,000.00 for charity to date and we will again be contributing from the proceeds of this years event to the Ashton KCJ Charitable Trust.

As well as being an informative training day we also urge you to make the most of this ideal networking opportunity. We have again sourced a wide range of exhibitors who we hope are relevant to your daily practice and who look forward to meeting you.

We look forward to seeing you at the conference and trust you enjoy your day.
